Housing Associations (Approved Housing Bodies, AHBs) have been playing their part to provide homes to those most in need through every output category available to them. In addition, the Irish Council for Social Housing (ICSH) and its members have been working on a number of new initiatives for delivery which have the potential to make a real difference with sufficient government support to the sector.

Below is a summary of activity, output and projections for the future from Housing Associations all with a collective mission to deliver affordable and quality homes to those most in need.
